Recognizing seismic characters of gas hydrates from different kinds of attribute profile

Sha Zhibin*
(P.O. Box 1180, Guangzhou Marine Geological Survey, Guangzhou, 510760, P.R.CHINA)

Liang Jinqiang
(P.O. Box 1180, Guangzhou Marine Geological Survey, Guangzhou, 510760, P.R.CHINA)

Wang Hongbin
(P.O. Box 1180, Guangzhou Marine Geological Survey, Guangzhou, 510760, P.R.CHINA)

Lu Jinan
(P.O. Box 1180, Guangzhou Marine Geological Survey, Guangzhou, 510760, P.R.CHINA)

Gong Yuehua
(P.O. Box 1180, Guangzhou Marine Geological Survey, Guangzhou, 510760, P.R.CHINA)

Guo Yiqun
(P.O. Box 1180, Guangzhou Marine Geological Survey, Guangzhou, 510760, P.R.CHINA)

Chen Fang
(P.O. Box 1180, Guangzhou Marine Geological Survey, Guangzhou, 510760, P.R.CHINA)

Abstract
Gas hydrates samples have been acquired from the north slope of the South China Sea in 2007. The drilling results showed that BSR is an important indication for gas hydrates. Based on the

*Corresponding author: Phone: +86 (0)151 138 28828 Fax +86 (20)8225 0265 E-mail: shazb2008@163.com